

Unlocking UB

Pt. 2

Story

Professor H. has finally got his drawing back.

To repay you for finding his treasured drawing, he has officially welcomed you onto his team. He is clearly relieved, as without the drawing, the project would have failed. However, the drawing alone is not enough to enable him to develop a working prototype. He clearly needs more knowledge about the complex subjects of time and mechanics, and their interrelationships and physical principles, to do so.

This is exactly where you come in. You must actively support him in his research. Your search for answers will take you back to the beginning – and thus to the quiet, mysterious library.

However, the question remains the same as in the first part: who can you really trust?

Rules

In order to prove your trustworthiness and uncover the trail of the forbidden shelf mark, there are a few things you need to bear in mind.

You will need to navigate your way around the entire library. Please be quiet and considerate towards other people who wish to study in the various areas of the reading room. Do not leave any traceable marks on the materials (i.e. handle them with care).

You will find various clues and snippets of information to help you solve the riddle. These fall into two categories:

are individual clues for one riddle are clues you need throughout the puzzle to overcome individual challenges.

Good luck!

60 min

Can't get any further?
You have two jokers.
Use them
wisely!

